A funeral oration upon the late King James. Composed from memoirs furnished by Mr. Porter, his great chamberlain. Printed by the consent of the late queen. Dedicated to the French king, and published by his authority. Wherein it is own'd, that the late king reconciled his brother Charles II. to the church of Rome; that he himself design'd to destroy the Protestant religion, and to reduce these kingdoms to the obedience of the see of Rome, according to the example of Louis le Grand, who, they hope, will effect it, and punish these rebellious nations, as they are pleased to call them. With remarks upon the whole. London, A. Baldwin, 1702.

[Gaya, Louis de]

Matrimonial ceremonies displayed: wherein are exhibited the various customs, odd pranks, whimsical tricks and surprising practices of near one hundred different kingdoms and people in the world, now used in the celebration and consummation of matrimony, collected from the papers of a rambling batchelor; with a variety of remarks by him, serious and humorous. To which is added the comical adventures of Sir Harry Fitzgerald, who had seven wives, with the character of each,—a genuine story. Also an epigram on matrimony, in
